

Remote Aboriginal Governance and Capacity Building Grant Program

Applications close: 8 November 2020

.....

The Remote Aboriginal Governance and Capacity Building Grant Program is available to support remote communities across the Northern Territory.

The grant is a flexible program aimed to support community controlled organisations and groups in remote areas to strengthen and improve effective governance and their capacity and capabilities to enable them to participate and deliver community-led initiatives, programs governance, leadership, operational processes and services to meet their community aspirations.

The Northern Territory Government recognises that building and supporting Aboriginal community controlled organisations and corporations is important to ensuring local people drive local solutions and service delivery, and create jobs at a community level.

The Remote Aboriginal Governance and Capacity Building Grant Program comprises two options:

- Grants for under $20 000
- Grants between $20 000 - $50 000

The grant can assist applicants to:

- Improve governance structures (including legal status and management of governance arrangements);

- Build leadership, negotiation and governance / board member skills and expertise;
- Improve operational rigour (including financial accountability, project management, HR and procurement expertise);
- Support community organisations in transitioning to local providers.

The fund will be open to organisations and corporations in remote areas of the Northern Territory.

Successful applications will showcase and demonstrate meaningful outcomes for remote Northern Territory communities, homelands and/or town camps.

Applications for the Remote Aboriginal Governance and Capacity Building Grant Program open on 28 September and close 8 November 2020.
